The Broken Word.

Walter Champ in Illustrated Kentuckian.

CHAPTER I.

The soft light which gleamed through the rose-colored globes in the Goodthynge home revealed looks of ill-concealed anxiety on the handsome face of Herbert Heartease as he sat in the Oriental parlor awaiting the coming of Gladys Goodthynge. The mirror on the mantel reflected the Mermets which he had sent her that morning, and on the table was the latest novel for which he had heard her express a wish. Impatiently he toyed with an embroidered sofa pillow. Would she ever come? It seemed an age since 11 last night.

CHAPTER II.

The curtains of the door were pushed aside and a faint perfume permeated the room. Instinctively Herbert Heartease lifted his eyes from the pages of the novel and saw Gladys Goodthynge—a vision of loveliness in violet silk—standing in the doorway. There were twin blushes and a lingering handclasp, then a tete-a-tete in the "cozy corner." Looking volumes with his eyes, Herbert sighed and stammered: "Miss G-G-Goodthynge, er G-G-Gladys, I-I-I love you. Be m-m-mine!" The blushing maid coyly turned her face from him and shook her head.

CHAPTER III.

The painful silence was broken by a sigh from Gladys Goodthynge as she withdrew her hand from the grasp of Herbert Heartease. "Alas," she said, "I cannot trust you." Twice Herbert attempted to speak, but his tongue refused to do his bidding. After one supreme effort he said: "W-W-Why, G-G-Gladys? I I-I love you m-m-madly!" Gladys Goodthynge sighed and said, "Yes but you break your word even when you vow constancy." In a moment Herbert Heartease was filled with rage un-speakable and passed from the house into the night.

THE GRAND OPERA SEASON.

The repertoire for the engagement of the Grand Opera Co., in Cincinnati, has been changed slightly. "The Barber of Seville" was sung last night before a brilliant audience, and "Lohengrin" will be sung in magnificent style to-night by a famous cast. "Mignon" with Miles, DeLussau, Olitzka and Suzanne Adams and MM. Salignac, Queyla, Dufrière, Meux and Plancon in the cast, will be sung instead of "Faust" at the matinee to-morrow. "Faust" will be sung to-morrow night by Munes, Sembrich, Bauermeister, Olitzka, MM. Saleza, Campanari, Meux, and Edouard de Reszke, and others. The prices will be: Lower floor, $4, $3; first balcony, $3, $2; gallery, $1.50.

A party of ten or more Paris people will leave this morning to attend the opera to-night and to-morrow afternoon.

The Elmira (N. Y.) Morning Advertiser says of Russell's Comedians, which come to the Paris Grand next Friday night, the 17th: "Russell's comedians drew a remarkably fine house last evening. The most exacting found something excellent in every number of the program. One who attends the performance of this company expecting to hear the best vaudeville and nothing else will not be disappointed, for there is a remarkable amount of ability among the performers. Hassier's balancing was of the highest class. Mazier and Cooley, in eccentric comedy and buck dancing, were very good. Leonzo, the juggler, did some new things. The contortionist, the brothers Zilla, Parentello and Pico, as the frog and yellow kid, were very good. Lillian Fletcher sang and danced prettily. Berry and Hughes are an unequalled pair of musical comedians. The Irish comedy duet by the Pattens, John and Ennie, made a great hit. The performance is continuous, the stage setting admirable and the costumes satisfactory. The orchestra deserves special mention for its excellence."

Mrs. Washington McLean's now famous Dewey parrot is to become a part of the new Dewey home establishment. It has become known that the new trick which the bird learned in honor of the admiral's home-coming weeks ago was taught by Mrs. Mildred Hazen, the admiral's fiancee. The parrot, which has been brought back to town from the country, still calls out cordially every time the admiral visits the McLean mansion: "Hello, George; hello, Dewey; walk in, walk in." The bird has become more prized than ever by Mrs. Hazen, and after her marriage to the admiral the bird will be removed to the Dewey residence in Rhode Island avenue.

KENTUCKIANS will see the novelty of two Governors being inaugurated on the same day—on December 12th. Senator Goebel and Gen. Taylor both announce that they are elected and will be inaugurated on that day.

FARMER FAHNSTOCK thinks he owns the stock he is so fond of, just as a matter of fact the stock owns him. He is the humble servant of horse, cow and pig. He looks after them better than he looks after himself, and feeds them before he feeds himself. That is why it so often happens that just about the time that Farmer Fahnstock has reached the place where he can take things easy, he breaks down.

No class of people have been more quickly appreciative of the tonic properties of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery than farmers and stock raisers. They have found it prevents as well as cures disease. It keeps the stomach in healthy operation, stimulates the organs of digestion and nutrition and increases the secretions of the blood-making glands. The use of "Golden Medical Discovery" at seasons when the strain of work is greatest, keeps the system in perfect working order and prevents the break down which comes from over drafts on the strength.

"I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several vials of his Pleasant Pellets" a year ago this spring, and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson of Townsend, Brownsville, Co., Montague, W. Va. "I fail to tell how thankful I am for the relief, as I have suffered so much and it seemed that the doctors could do me no good. I got down in weight to 125 pounds, and was not able to work at all. Now I am nearly 140 and can do a day's work on the farm. I have recommended this medicine to several, and shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

A single item of medical knowledge when life is at stake has a value past computation. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser has 100 pages of priceless paragraphs. This great work is sent absolutely free on receipt of postage to pay mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-bound edition, or 31 stamps for edition in cloth. Address Dr. R. V. THE STATE ELECTIONS

Ohio Republican Ticket Elected by a Plurality of 50,000—Jones Vote 100,000.

MARYLAND AGAIN GOES DEMOCRATIC.

New Jersey Elects a Republican Governor by 20,000 Plurality—Both Houses Will Be Republican.

Returns So Far From Kentucky Indicate That Taylor, Republican, is Elected Governor, Although Blackburn Claims the State—Other States.

KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 9.—The following statements from the two candidates were given Wednesday:

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—The battle for the restoration of civil liberty in Kentucky has been fought and won, notwithstanding the disfranchisement of 25,000 voters on Tuesday. I congratulate the manhood of the state, and thank all those—irrespective of party affiliation—who united to bring about this splendid result.

The trust which has been confided to me will be assumed and maintained.

W. S. TAYLOR.

COVINGTON, Ky., Nov. 9.—I have advised enough from all over the state to say that the democratic state ticket is elected by not less than 7,000, and there will be a working democratic majority in each branch of the general assembly.

WM. GOEBEL.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—With returns from all but 13 counties in the state, some of which are unofficial, and with the vote of '97 as the basis of calculation, Taylor's plurality in the state figures 830. A majority of the missing counties are from the Eleventh District, which is largely republican. At republican headquarters it is still maintained that Taylor's plurality will reach 15,000.

Complete returns from every precinct in the city of Louisville give Goebel 15,606, Brown 2,749, and Taylor 18,860, giving Taylor a plurality of 3,254.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—At midnight Chairman Long of the republican campaign committee, claims that Gen. Taylor has carried the state by from 2,000 to 3,000 majority. He says that Taylor has carried the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth and Eleventh congressional districts, while the Eighth and Tenth are close. The republicans have made heavy gains in most all of the democratic strongholds, which were expected to give Goebel large majorities. Chairman Long says the republicans have carried the city of Louisville by from 3,254 majority.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 9.—Chairman Blackburn, of the democratic state campaign committee, gave out the following statement at noon, Wednesday:

"Goebel is elected by 3,000 or 4,000 majority on the face of returns. If contest is made his majority will be increased. Legislature safely democratic, both branches. Democratic majority on joint ballot of not less than 30."

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 9.—Former Senator Blackburn, at 2 p.m. Wednesday, sent the following telegram to W. J. Bryan: "We carried Kentucky by a small but safe majority. Sincere congratulations upon your splendid victory in Nebraska."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Barren county gives Goebel a plurality of 697, a democratic loss of 214 from the Bryan vote in 1896.

ASHLAND, Ky., Nov. 9.—Election was quiet. City of Ashland always republican, goes same way. Majority 273, gain of 172 over last election.

DANVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—The town of Danville gives Taylor 539; Goebel 338. This is a republican gain of 26 over last year.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Nov. 9.—Menifee county gives Goebel, dem., for governor 535; Taylor, rep., 349; Brown, 49.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Later returns do not change the estimate of the result in this city. In addition to carrying Louisville for the state ticket the republicans have elected their city ticket consisting of councilmen and a judge of the police court by about 3,254 plural. Their legislative ticket is also successful.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Nov. 9.—Indications point to the heaviest vote ever cast in Clark county. Goebel will have 2,200 votes, Taylor 1,750. Brown less than 100. Goebel is running ahead of his ticket. The usual democratic majority will be increased.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Hopkins county complete gives Taylor 2,619; Goebel 2,298; Brown 222. Taylor's plurality 321.

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Shelby county gives Goebel 2,282; Taylor 1,765; Brown 200. Democratic loss of 100 from the election for clerk of court of appeals.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Nov. 9.—Middlesboro complete: Taylor, 350; Goebel, 235. Same, 1897: Bailey, 422; Shackleford, 119. Bell county un-official: Taylor, 1,200; Goebel, 500. Same, 1897: Bailey, 1,299; Shackleford, 36.

RICHMOND, Ky., Nov. 9.—Madison county gives Taylor, rep., 150 over Goebel, dem. Miller, rep., wins for county judge by 10. Harris, rep., defeats Combs, dem., by 100. Burnam, rep., wins for state senate without opposition.

Three precincts in Richmond give Taylor a majority of 3, a republican gain over last year.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Goebel has probably carried Logan county by 10 majority. It gave Bryan nearly 1,200. H. Bunte, rep., is elected to the legislature by a small majority. State senator's race in doubt, but changes favor Harrelle, dem.

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Barboursville gives Taylor 65 votes; Goebel 184. Brown 9. This indicates a slight decrease in the usual republican majority.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Nov. 9.—Daviess county 3 precincts missing, gives Goebel 3,322, Taylor 2,910. Same precincts in 1896 gave Bryan 4,240. McKinley 2,730. Watkins, dem., wins over Thompson, rep., for legislature in county district. Close between Small, dem., and Slack, rep., in city of Owensboro. Slack probably wins.

HANFORD, Ky., Nov. 9.—Simpson county, two missing precincts, gives Goebel a majority of 500. The vote polled was: Goebel, 1,150; Brown, 79. Gerald T. Finn, rep., for representative, received a majority of 600.

EDAD, Ky., Nov. 9.—The complete returns in Rowan county give Taylor a majority. Huff for senator, 83; Tipton for representative.

LE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Cumberland county gives Goebel 4,385; Brown, 16; Taylor, 1,078. Varberry, rep., 1,056; Neil.

—The following in this city: Wm.

Goebel, dem., 5,404; Wm. S. Taylor, rep., 2,037; John Young Brown, dem., 3,887. The entire city democratic ticket was elected. In the legislative contests Steve W. Henry, Will Collopy and M. Abele, all democrats, were elected as members of the legislature.

COVINGTON, Ky., Nov. 9.—Early returns from Covington indicate that Goebel has carried Kenton county by 2,500, and that Johnson for mayor has carried the city by 1,000.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—With eight precincts missing, Taylor's majority in Christian county is 735. Trig county gives Goebel less than 100 majority. Todd county gives Taylor 225. Hopkins county goes republican by about 200.

OHIO.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—The democratic state committee has no additional returns Wednesday and nothing to announce. It is understood that Mr. McLean may make a statement soon bearing on the causes that brought about the result. Judge Nash, the governor-elect, has received many congratulations, especially over carrying his own county of Franklin by over 2,000. The county was carried by democrats for governor by 1,300 two years ago. Chairman Dick today has revised his figures so as to claim from 55,000 to 60,000 plurality for Judge Nash for governor and the rest of the republican state ticket and an unusually large majority in both branches of the legislature. No senator is, however, to be selected by this legislature. The total vote was perhaps exceeded only at the last election. It will reach 92,000, as compared with 74,000 last year, and 86,000 in 1877, with which year the vote was compared. The plurality of Judge Nash exceeds that of President McKinley in 1886, and almost double that of Gov. Bushnell in 1897. The Jones vote, although the largest ever polled for a third candidate, is not regarded as large as indicated in the earlier returns Tuesday night. It is not likely to receive 100,000, and almost half of this vote was cast in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo.

It is estimated that the Jones vote in Cuyahoga county will be 25,000, in Hamilton 10,000, in Lucas 8,000, and in Franklin 2,500. Outside of the fusion troubles in Hamilton county and the confusion in Cuyahoga county and the Jones movement in other places, the Republicans seem to have made gains throughout the state, especially in the rural districts.

The senate stands 19 republicans, 8 democrats and 4 doubtful, including three from Hamilton county.

The house stands 58 republicans, 34 democrats and 17 doubtful, including ten members from Hamilton county.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—At 12:30 the republicans claimed that their plurality would exceed 50,000, with over 100,000 for Jones, out of a total of less than 900,000. The republican majority in the legislature is larger than usual, but no senator is to be elected. Judge Nash was serenaded after midnight at the Neil house. To an enthusiastic crowd he made a brief speech upon being introduced by Hon. Harry M. Daugherty, his rival for the nomination. Judge Nash said that the Ohio result was a message to President McKinley that his home state endorsed his administration and pressed McKinley's renomination and re-election in 1900. The republicans made their largest gains at the homes of Judge Nash, Senator Hanna and Chairman Dick. The democrats made their largest gains at the home of Mr. McLean.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—Complete returns have been received from every precinct in Hamilton county. McLean carries Hamilton county by over 1,000 votes, but the entire state republican ticket wins. On the republican county ticket Probate Judge Howard Ferris is re-elected by a large plurality and John H. Gibson will be the new treasurer. Magistrates Kushman and Winkler are re-elected and Magistrate Gass was defeated. In the county Samuel Hornbrook was elected infirmary director.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 9.—Full returns in the city give Nash 7,515, McLean 6,631, Jones 9,783. The county returns are not fully in, but will reduce the Jones plurality something below 2,000. Jones carried 11 out of 15 wards and Nash 4.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9.—Complete unofficial returns from this, Cuyahoga county, give Jones, independent, 38,196; Nash, republican, 21,363; McLean, democrat, 7,423. Jones' plurality, 14,827.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9.—Thirteen election districts out of 308 in Cleveland give Smith, dem., for governor, 2,068; Lowndes, rep., 1,083; a plurality 32; republican gain 14.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Vreeland, republican candidate for congress from the 34th congressional district, received 1,634; Stillman Lewis, dem., 435 votes in this city.

MARYLAND.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—Thirteen election districts out of 308 in Baltimore give Smith, dem., for governor, 2,068; Lowndes, rep., 1,083; a plurality 32; republican gain 14.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—The republicans of Maryland have been overwhelmingly defeated and John Walter Smith, the democratic candidate, has been elected by a majority variously estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000. There is also a reasonable certainty that the lower house of the general assembly will be democratic by a large majority and that the democrats will elect enough state senators to overcome the republican advantage among the holdovers senators thereby controlling both branches of the legislature.

Gen. Thos. Shryock, chairman of the state central committee, at 10 o'clock Tuesday night conceded the election of John Walter Smith, dem., for governor by 10,000 majority.

FREDERICK, Md., Nov. 9.—Scattering returns from this county indicate that the democrats have carried the city with a small majority for the state ticket. It gave Lowndes 700 majority four years ago.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—Thirty-six precincts in Pittsburgh show a net gain for Barnett, rep., of 288 over vote cast for Beacon, present state treasurer. The county will give Barnett 18,000 plurality.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 9.—Barnett, rep., candidate for state treasurer, has carried Allegheny county by 20,000 according to Republican Chairman Robertson at 11 o'clock. The entire republican state and county tickets are elected by the same majorities.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Estimates from all the counties in the state indicate Barnett, rep., plurality over Creasy, dem., to be 19,000. In some counties the estimates were necessarily based on meager information and complete returns may change the figures given.

In 1897, when Swallow, Ind., carried ten counties in the state, the plurality of Beacon, rep., was 129,717 and in 1895 the plurality for Haywood, rep., was 174,294.

N.J. Nov. 9.—Fifteen precincts in New Jersey indicate a republican gain of 1,000 over last year.

RUTHERFORD, N. J., Nov. 9.—The returns at midnight indicate that the republicans have carried the state by about 30,000 plurality, although there was no direct vote on a state ticket. The republicans will control both houses of the legislature by good working majorities, and will have an increased representation in the house of assembly.

The republicans have elected senators in Camden, Gloucester, Somerset, Union and Essex, and probably in Salem and Monmouth. The democrats have elected but one senator in Warren.

The senate will stand 44 republicans to 7 democrats. The democrats lost three assemblies in Middlesex and one in Salem, and the next assembly will be composed of 41 republicans and 19 democrats, against 37 republicans and 23 democrats last year.

XENIA, O., Nov. 9.—Practically complete returns from Greene county gives Nash 2,350 plurality over McLean. Jones received 550 votes.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Nov. 9.—Nash carries Ross county by 600.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 9.—Complete returns give Nash 1,971 plurality in the city. County gives Nash 985 plurality. Gov. Bushnell's precinct shows net loss of 71.

IRONTON, O., Nov. 9.—Six precincts of Lawrence county give Nash 1,391; McLean 802; Jones 53.

MANFRED, O., Nov. 9.—Mansfield complete gives Nash 1,783; McLean 1,696; Jones 20. Republicans gain 23; democratic gain 7 over vote for governor in 1897. County will go democratic 900.

LEWIS, O., Nov. 9.—The following in this city: Wm.

by about 1,200. Gained a couple hundred over Bushnell, caused by Jones candidacy. The democratic county elected ticket by 1,240.

FREMONT, O., Nov. 9.—McLean's estimated plurality is about 1,110. A gain of about 100. Votes coming in very slow.

FOSTORIA, O., Nov. 9.—The vote in the city is Nash 937; McLean, 600; Jones, 220; a gain of 63 over vote of 97.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 9.—Mahoning county complete, unofficial. Nash, rep., 6,330; McLean, 4,736; Jones, 1,259. Nash's plurality, 1,464.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 9.—Nash has carried the city by 500. Jones vote will not exceed 500.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Returns from state and city so far received indicate that the republicans will have about the same majority in the next assembly as in the last, the democratic gains in this city being offset by losses in the smaller counties. In 113 assembly districts which have reported, including 29 in this city, 75 republicans and 28 democrats were elected.

The democrats suffered grave reverses in Erie county (Buffalo) and Chemung county, the home of ex-Senator David B. Hill. In the city elections up the state the democratic vote showed a great falling off. Buffalo, Troy and Albany gave large republican majorities, a complete overturn. Mayor James K. McGuire, dem., is re-elected mayor of Syracuse, a tribute to his personal popularity.

In the four counties of New York city the state big democratic majorities were rolled up, every candidate in every county being elected except Gray, democratic candidate for recorder of Kings, against whom charges of corruption had been made.

Tammany shows no elation over the plurality of 45,000 for its New York county ticket, having expected it.

The rejoicing is over the defeat of Assembly Robert Mazet, rep., by Perez M. Stewart, in the 19th assembly district, which usually is strongly republican. Nelson H. Henry, rep., in the 5th assembly district, against whom the labor unions made a fight, was re-elected.

In the 34th congressional district E. B. Vreeland, rep., was elected by an enormous majority, at least 10,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—In the 63 assembly districts outside of New York city which have reported 56 republicans and 7 democrats were elected, a democratic loss of 5.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—In the 19th assembly district 21 out of 35 assembly precincts give Mazet 2,512; Stewart, 2,500.

Seventy election districts out of the 881 in the First judicial district give Barrett, rep., and dem., for the supreme court, 15,778; Daly, rep., 6,410; O'Gorman, dem., 9,423.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The standard voting machine was used in this city Tuesday for the first time and accomplished all that was expected of it. The result in the city was known 45 minutes after the polls were closed, on the head of the ticket, which was computed first. The republicans made a clean sweep, electing the city treasurer and other city officers by majorities ranging from 2,000 to 9,000. The republicans also elect their entire councilmanic ticket, giving them seven members and the democrats two. They also elect 13 of the 25 aldermen.

Late returns show that the New York assembly stands: Republicans 91; democrats 59; plurality 32; republican gain 14.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Vreeland, republican candidate for congress from the 34th congressional district, received 1,634; Stillman Lewis, dem., 435 votes in this city.

THE ORIGIN OF GRINGO.

It is the Name Given by Mexicans to Americans because of a Song

All the way from California comes a little story of the origin of "gringo," the name given by the Mexicans to all English and Americans. The writer, who recently returned from a trip through Mexico, says:

"While in Guaymas I met a sea captain by the name of Bruce, then commander of the schooner La Union. He asked me if I would like to take a trip with him to a small seaport village called Ajijicavapo, 65 miles down the Gulf of California, near the mouth of both the Mayo and Yaqui rivers. We had been on shore probably half an hour when we heard that the natives were celebrating the anniversary of a saint, and were having a great time. I invited the captain to accompany me to see it, and the host welcomed me cordially and told me to bring in my companion, 'el gringo.'

"We were then introduced to the heads of the families, and were politely told to make ourselves at home. I drifted away from the captain and sat down by an old lady, whose name I learned was Fabiana Murieta de Farrel. She stated that she was 94 years old and had been married to a 'gringo' 32 years. She then explained why the Americans were called 'gringos,' as follows:

GORILLA LACKS CULTURE.

The Manlike Animals Have Very Short Thumbs, Which They Cannot Twiddle.

The gorilla and chimpanzee, which belong to the higher order of apes, have many points of resemblance to man, but there is one thing they cannot do—that is, twiddle their thumbs, says an exchange. In the gorilla the thumb is short and does not reach much beyond the bottom of the first joint of the forefinger. It is very much restricted in its movements, and the animal can neither twiddle his thumbs nor turn them round so that the tips describe a circle. There are the same number of bones in the hand of a gorilla as in the hand of man, but the thumbs of the monkey have no separate flexor or bending muscle. This is why a monkey always keeps the thumb on the same side as the fingers and never bends it round any object that may be grasped. In the gorilla the web between the finger extends to the second joint, the finger tapers to the tips, and there is a callosity on the knuckles on which the animal rests when walking on all fours. There are many other strong points of resemblance between the ape and man, but—well, we wish to be charitable to our fellow man and will therefore drop the subject.

AFTER HIS FORTUNE.

Messenger, Hunted for Two Weeks, Evades Indian Pursuers and Brings Back the Money.

"There died in Kansas City, Kan., the other day," says the Kansas City Journal, "a quiet, unobtrusive, modest, and never boastful citizen. He came from a Pennsylvania regiment in 1864, and he became a messenger for the Holliday Express company, running from Leavenworth to Santa Fe. W. H. Bridgens, the messenger referred to, on one of his trips had $100,000 in greenbacks strapped about his person and secreted in his clothes. There was no one but him and the driver in charge of the coach, and for days they proceeded along their lonesome journey without seeing a human face. When yet many miles from Santa Fe they were overtaken by a howling band of Indians and a fierce battle was fought. Bridgens and his companion exhausted their ammunition and continued the fight with their knives. Finally they succeeded in unloading their horses from the stage, and, quickly mounting them, fled through the timber. The savages gave chase and succeeded in separating the two men, but did not capture either of them. Mr. Bridgens still retained his treasure, but he lost his way among the crags and canyons, and it was more than two weeks before he found his way to the house of a white man. During all this time he subsisted entirely upon berries and herbs. His long absence caused his employers to believe that he had been robbed and killed by the Indians, and before his return they had made good the money that he had given up as lost. When Mr. Bridgens returned with his precious burden still intact they were amazed, and so grateful were they that they presented their young agent with a handsome token of their appreciation.

SCHOOL FOR BLUSHING.

Paris Has an Institute for Teaching the Simulation of Sweet Embarrassment.

One of the latest novelties of Paris, that city of novelties, is a school where blushing is taught. If there is any place where blushing has become a lost art, one would certainly think it was Paris, but the Parisians, on the other hand, declare that it is a result of Anglomania and the influence of the American girl. The young woman who plays golf or rides a bicycle in "rationals" in the freest camaraderie with her male friends is likely to acquire a self-poise which will make the flush of embarrassment a stranger to her cheeks, and the city where women are bicycling on the boulevard with their bare knees exposed has felt the necessity of a reaction. The classic grace and simplicity of the early years of the century, with their accompanying downcast eyes and simpers, are now in vogue again, and the maidens who have forgotten how to blush are going to school to learn the primitive art. They say it is easy enough to drop the eyes and affect bashfulness, but to call up a mantling color is as difficult as pulling eye teeth.

How the crimsoning flow of red blood to the pale cheek is accomplished in these fin de siecle schools of deportment it is hard to imagine, unless it is that they have taken a page out of Du Maurier's joke book and emulate the society girl who surprised her friend by always blushing at the right time. "How can you manage it?" asked the other girl, enviously. "Oh, it is very easy," the expert blusher replied. "I simply think of something that makes me blush."

DUMAS OUTDONE.

Chinese Novels Are Said to Reach the Utmost Limit of Elaboration.

It is a proof of the high degree of elaboration to which fiction literature in China has been carried that most of their novels are thickly interspersed with poems of all orders of merit.

No stronger evidence could be afforded of the fact that whatever they lack is not literary finish. If anything, they have this in excess.

These poems are introduced in a variety of ways. The hero sends one in a billet doux to the heroine, or he overhears her singing one, or perhaps a poetic contest is struck up, the fine on defeat being generally the compulsory drinking of so many extra flagons of wine.

Wine drinking and versification almost invariably go together in Chinese novels, though whether they do so in real life we are unable to say.

Above all things, every man who sets up to be anything in the way of a hero in Chinese fiction must be prepared to extemporize by the ram inimitable poetry.

THE HOSPITAL SHIP.

Lady Randolph Churchill Makes a Statement to the American Friends of Great Britain in Regard to the Project.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lady Randolph Churchill made Wednesday the following statement to American friends with regard to the project of American women in England fitting out a hospital ship for use in South African waters: "The time for fitting out the Maine is so brief that I am glad to avail myself of the opportunity to set the project fairly before the American people. The interest manifested by Americans has already taken such tangible form from New York to San Francisco that I am sure an intimation that with the remaining work there is to do must be done immediately will spur the American public into a ready response to our needs."

"There is but one motive, one reason, for the project of sending a hospital ship to the Cape. We have had oratory and societies for the promotion of Anglo-American friendship. This is the golden opportunity to put that expression of good will into tangible form. It is especially the province of American women to promote this cause, but it is woman's function to foster and nourish the suffering. American people are more adept at it, we believe, than others."

"The Maine is to be essentially an American women's ship. We are not to aid only the wounded, but are to show the world that American women can do good work better than any one else can do. I am going to the Cape in the Maine not because my son is there, for he will be a thousand miles away, but because I want the generous efforts of American contributors to be carried out under the personal supervision of a member of the executive committee."

"I am going because I think I may prevent any kind of friction between the American nurses whom Mrs. Whitehead Reid is sending out on Saturday and the British officials, in case such friction should arise. I contribute that much time and service gladly, and all our committee would do the same. The Maine will be a success, and we hope American contributions, already given so generously, will within the next few days insure that success beyond a doubt."

WHEATON AT SAN FABIAN.

Gen. MacArthur Begins His Advance Towards Tarlac—Gen. Lawton Resumes His March Wednesday.

MANILA, Nov. 9.—Gen. Wheaton's orders to land at or near San Fabian, a fishing village 20 miles northeast of Dagupan. The insurgent force there only numbered about 300 men entrenched, whereas at Dagupan, there are some thousands of insurgents and five miles of strong trenches. The Mounta river is Tuesday's Election.

THOUGH the excitement in Kentucky was intense in many places the election passed off without any fatalities being reported. Many charges of fraud have been preferred and a number of men have been arrested in Lexington, Louisville and Covington.

The result of the election is yet in doubt. Senator Goebel in a speech at Frankfort Wednesday night claimed his election by about three thousand, and said that he would be inaugurated. Gen. Taylor and Chairman Long claim a Republican victory by 5,000, and say that the Republican candidate will be inaugurated.

The Courier-Journal and Times claim Goebel's election, and the Commercial, Dispatch and Post claim a Taylor victory.

The election in Bourbon passed off quietly. Taylor carried the county over Goebel by thirty votes. Hon. John T. Hinton was elected Representative without opposition, and Allen Kiser, was elected over Porter Jett, Republican, by 170 majority. The friends of Mrs. Ashbrook and Mr. Kiser are congratulating them over their splendid race. Hon. J. T. Hinton, Bourbon's invincible Democrat and conservative representative, will again represent the county in the Legislature. J. W. Thomas, Jr., an excellent Democrat, was elected Magistrate for Paris precinct.

The County Election Commissioners will meet this morning at ten o'clock to canvass the returns. The unofficial returns are given in another column.

The following is the result of the city election for councilmen:

FIRST WARD.

Precinct	Precinct	1	2
James O'Brien, D.		101	113
T. E. Ashbrook, D.		99	111
H. Montgomery, D.		100	112
J. W. Bacon, R.		65	99
Percy Jones, R.		59	99
Robert Gorey, R.		58	102

SECOND WARD.

W. O. Hinton, D. C. Parrish and R. Q. Thompson, Democrats, had no opposition.

THIRD WARD.

Precinct	Precinct	5	6
George Stivers, R.		127	119
Wm. Remington, D.		67	27

Complete but unofficial returns show a plurality of 50,364 for Nash, the Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, over McLean. The vote for Jones will reach about 100,000.

Two contested precincts in Madison may decide the race for Representative from that county, electing Combs, Democrat.

The fusionists have carried Nebraska by 12,000 and perhaps more on the face of returns from nearly half of the counties.

Six Democrats were arrested at Frankfort Wednesday on warrants sworn out before a Federal Commissioner charging them with intimidating colored voters.

Returns from the counties of the Second and Railroad Commissioner district indicate a majority of over 2,000 for C. C. McChord, the Democratic nominee.

NUPTIAL KNOTS

Engagements, Announcements and Solemnizations of The Marriage Vows.

MARR-CHAMP.

Standing before a semi-circular altar banked with beautiful palms and ferns, Miss Mary Champ, of Millersburg, and John Lawson Marr, of Huntington, West Virginia, plighted their troth forever and aye in the presence of a large assembly of friends in the Millersburg Presbyterian Church, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

The wedding music was played in masterly style by Prof. A. M. Gutzeit, of this city, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Laird, of Virginia, sweet and low music being played while the beautiful words were being spoken.

Master George Howard and pretty little Miss Louella Payne, (of Scott county), who received the church cards at the inner door, as ribbon bearers preceded the wedding party to the altar. Messrs. Joseph Mock, of Millersburg, and Chas. Blair, of Huntington, and Will Hite, of Huntington, and Banks Allen Neal, of Millersburg, ushers, started simultaneously from the side doors, and were met at the altar by Rev. Laird, the officiating minister, and Walter Champ, usher, who came up the center aisle. Mr. Marr, the groom, with the best man, Mr. Frank Archer, of Huntington, came up the North side aisle and were met in front of the minister by the bride and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Champ, who gave her away. After the ceremony was performed the mother lifted the veil of the bride. Leaving the church Rev. Laird and Mrs. Champ followed the bride and groom, the best man and ushers and ribbon bearers following in turn.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Champ, and is an accomplished young lady who has been a leading figure in prominent circles wherever she has lived. Always stately, the bride was unusually handsome in a beautiful wedding gown of white moire silk, en train, trimmed with point lace, garnished with orange blossoms. She wore a long veil, caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The groom is a leading citizen of Huntington, West Virginia, where he holds large steamboat interests, and is popular with a wide circle of friends. They left immediately after the ceremony for Paris, where they took the L. & N. train for Lexington to start East for a wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Marr were the recipients of a large number of handsome presents, chosen with rare good taste. Several telegrams of congratulation were received from friends from a distance just before the wedding.

The wedding party was entertained at luncheon Tuesday night by the bride after the rehearsal at the church.

Invitations been issued to the marriage of Miss Bird Rogers, of Georgetown and Mr. James Easley Lipscomb, of Danville, Va., which will be celebrated next Wednesday evening at six-thirty in the Presbyterian Church at Georgetown.

Miss Fannie Rogers, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor, Willie Rogers, flower girl and Robert Bryan, page. The bridesmaids will be Misses Mary

The World's Gold Output.

The recent report of the director of the mint says that one-half of the world's gold product for the last four hundred years has been produced within the last forty years. The total production of the world, from the discovery of America to the present time is, in round terms, $10,000,000,000, or, to be exact, $9,883,056,900, and of this amount $5,341,855,600, or over one-half, has been produced since 1890, and $2,540,260,000, or over one-fourth, since 1895. The average production prior to 1890 was about $12,000,000 per annum; from 1890 to 1890, about ten times that average per annum, and in 1899 is at the rate of $325,000,000 per annum.

THE CHOICE.

If it could choose, would the chattering brook
Flow tirelessly on, from each shady nook,
Out to the sun and the sea?
Would it blend with the waves in the deep,
Or sing its own song, in melodious flow—
Monarch of meadow and sea?
If we could choose, would a starless sky,
Or a fret or a jar or a tear or a sigh
Enter these lives of ours?
Would we willingly go through life's devils
Serene in the sunlight, dark in the haze,
Unmindful of pleasure's flowers?
Ah, could we choose, we would miss, I think,
The strength of our striving—the towering brink.
Of virtue too hard to climb;
But man in his bosom has buried a dream
God-given, and tenderly, fitfully gleams—
Under the earth-mold and rime—
Glimpses of beauty that lure our hearts on,
Despite of life's failures, out into the dawn
Of peace through the tempest of pain;
For man's but a child, and his lesson—
Learn that earth's rarest hues, tear-bowed may burn.
Out of the mist and rain.

Five minutes later he was back again. Tom had not returned, and Rider gulped down another draught of fiery liquor and then skulked up the street until he came to the darkest portion, where a narrow alley afforded him a secure hiding place. His right hand was hidden in the pocket of his coat, and grasped a short implement made of bone, which the sailors call a "fid," and which he had secured while on board a few moments before.

Under ordinary circumstances the liquor he had imbibed would have confused his brain, but now he was only conscious of an intense, overpowering determination to secure the papers which meant so much to the man who could reach the gold region with them.

There had been a smart shower in the early part of the evening, and the dripping from the low eaves of the houses still continued, but had a dragging and relenting sound. A solitary street light 50 yards away cast a dismal gleam for a few square yards in either direction, while an occasional burst of drunken laughter from the next street told of some party of revelers making their noisy way home.

The mate noticed none of these things. His eyes were fixed intently in the direction from which he expected his victim to come, and his square jaws were set. Through his brain ran but one thought:

"The papers!"

Half an hour passed and Tom came striding along under the gaslight, humming a tune and merrily rehearsing the play he had just witnessed. Suddenly the watcher uttered an imprecation under his breath, for just as he was gathering himself for a spring he espied a dark figure stealing noiselessly along behind the young man.

Closer and closer crept the fateful shadow, and as Tom arrived opposite the alley where the mate was crouching, the latter saw the second figure take a few rapid, noiseless strides. Then an arm was raised over Tom's head and fell with crushing force, sending him stunned and senseless to the muddy pavement, while his assailant bent over his form to secure the valuable he might have about him.

With a shout of rage the mate rushed from his place of concealment toward the stranger, who sprang nimbly to his feet and sped down the street at amazing speed, without waiting to dispute the field with the newcomer.

To kneel by the prostrate form and tear open his clothing was the work of an instant, and when Obed Rider arose to his feet he held the belt containing the precious documents in his hands.

Slipping it quickly into his pocket he gave a hasty glance about him. All he still and once more he knelt by Tom's side, panting.

"Is he dead? I must be sure!"

In one hand he grasped his weapon and the other he placed over the young man's heart.

At first he detected no pulsation, then there was a feeble flutter and a moment later Tom groaned faintly.

"He's alive!"

The words were hissed forth in a murderous manner and as he spoke Rider raised his weapon.

But the blow did not fall, for even as he nerved himself for the stroke the mate had a new thought which arrested his arm. He must have money and had no time to lose. If he robbed Tom of both money and papers the victim, even if he recovered, was powerless to pursue his journey further. Who would believe his story of the gold mine?

All this flashed through his brain in much less time than it takes to write it, and with feverish, trembling haste he began fumbling about in Tom's clothes. He was not long finding the money which Tom carried in an inside pocket of his vest and was rising to his feet when a door suddenly opened a few yards away and a man came out of the house.

Without waiting to see in which direction he was turning, Obed Rider hurried away toward the wharf and was soon safe in his stateroom with his ill-gotten booty. His eyes shone with devilish triumph as he peered over the papers, and the sight of over $700 in cash wrapped around the railroad ticket to

Seattle filled his measure of satisfaction to overflowing.

He had no knowledge of the amount left Tom by the old miner and as he carefully secreted his treasures about his person, he chuckled:

"I'm a made man. He's lost his pile and the papers, too. I'll take the train to-day, you fool, in your place. I wonder if he will get over the rap or not? I don't need to fret, anyway. I didn't hit him, and he'll never know who did."

Tom's unintentional rescuer came quickly along until he caught sight of the prostrate figure, then he stopped short and slipped his hand behind him, glancing sharply about on every side. Apparently satisfied that no one was near, he knelt by the motionless form and struck a match.

It was a ghastly picture. Tom's face was so covered with blood that his features were not recognizable, his clothing was disarranged and covered with black mud, and as the newcomer looked a deep groan came from the prostrate man's lips.

With a little exclamation of horror the stranger rose to his feet and ran back to the door he had just left. He was gone but an instant, returning with another man, who assisted him in carrying the inanimate form to the entrance. With much trouble they lifted their heavy burden along a narrow passage into a scantly furnished room, where they placed it upon a narrow bed in one corner.

A small kerosene lamp stood on a table, and by its light the first man took a look at the face, saying:

"Get a basin of water, Ned. Quick! We must see how bad he is hurt."

When the water arrived a moment later, he washed the blood from Tom's face with a gentle hand, then as the features became distinct he uttered a little cry of astonishment and dropped on his knees by the wounded man, exclaiming:

"By thunder, Ned, I know this man! He was a passenger with us! If it isn't Mr. Scott, I'm a sinner! Somebody has knocked him on the head and gone through him! Bring the light! He may be hurt bad!"

As he spoke Tom moaned and stirred upon the bed. Then he opened his eyes and struggled with a wild look into a half-erect position.

"What's all this?" he groaned.

"Where am I?"

"It's all right, Mr. Scott," replied a familiar voice. "You are with a friend. Better lie down awhile till you feel better."

Tom looked at him in a bewildered fashion, blinking his eyes in the glare of the lamp which the third man held close to him.

"Mr. Green!" he said, wonderingly.

"Yes, sir," replied the second mate of the Seabird. "It's me, I happened along just in time. Are you hurt much? Let me look at your head."

"My head?" repeated Tom, who had no clear conception of where he was or whether he was asleep or awake.

"Yes," replied his rescuer, lifting the hair on the top of his head as he spoke. "You were knocked down on the street and I found you there. I was going down to the vessel after some things I left there and I stumbled over a man on the sidewalk. I had no idea it was you, but I couldn't let a chap lie there in the mud, so we took you in here. This is my room. I've left the Seabird, you know. I'm off for the gold mines in the Klondike if I can get there."

The last word acted like magic upon Tom.

"The Klondike!" he repeated. "Yes, I remember. It all comes to me now. I forgot where I was. I remember now—I was attacked on the street! Somebody came up behind and struck me!"

"That's it. Then I came along and found you. You've got an ugly cut on the head, but I don't think it will amount to anything after you rest awhile. There is no doctor round here that I know of, and I'll just put a bit of plaster on it for you if you don't mind. You can get it looked at tomorrow if you want to."

The third man held the light while this was done and then left the second mate with his patient, who asked:

"Who was that?"

"I hire this room of him," was the reply. "He helped me bring you in from the street."

"You are very good," said Tom, "but it's late and I'm keeping you out of your bed."

As he spoke he tried to rise, but the other restrained him.

"You are not well enough yet," he said, kindly. "Better rest awhile. Did you lose anything when you were struck? Have you watch or money?"

Tom interrupted him with a hoarse cry. "My belt!" he panted, wildly.

His hands went to his waist and then the full force of his loss burst upon him.

It was gone!

The unfortunate young man looked stupidly at the sailor a moment, then he broke into meaningless laughter and fell back upon the bed. The blow had robbed him of his scattered senses and he fainted.

When the doctor reached his side a few hours later, Tom was suffering from brain fever and could not be moved. The second mate had summoned Capt. Coffin and now turned to him, saying:

"We can't leave him alone and without a cent. I was going to try my luck up north in the mines, but hang me if I'll leave him this way. I'm going to stay alongside the poor chap till he gets well or dies, if it takes every red I've got!"

"Put it there!" roared the bluff old skipper, holding out his hard fist. "You're a man, you are. But there's plenty of money belonging to him in my safe, and you needn't use a cent of yours. See he has the best care and call on me for the pay when you need it."

That afternoon the north-bound train included Obed Rider among its passengers.

Seattle filled his measure of satisfaction to overflowing.

He had no knowledge of the amount left Tom by the old miner and as he carefully secreted his treasures about his person, he chuckled:

"I'm a made man. He's lost his pile and the papers, too. I'll take the train to-day, you fool, in your place. I wonder if he will get over the rap or not? I don't need to fret, anyway. I didn't hit him, and he'll never know who did."

"I'm afraid the poor fellow has got his discharge."

CHAPTER V.
RIDER GETS A SURPRISE.

Obed Rider was far from easy in his mind as the train sped on, leaving San Francisco behind. He had slept aboard the vessel the previous night until the noise of the second mate arousing the captain had awakened him. They did not call him, knowing the enemy that had existed between himself and Tom, but he overheard enough to tell him that Tom was alive, although badly hurt and out of his head with fever.

He knew Tom was in utter ignorance of the identity of his assailant, but had been aware of the loss of the belt? Would the skipper remember the time he had seen the mate coming out of Tom's room and place any new significance on the incident?

A guilty conscience made him imagine all sorts of dangers to himself, and he trembled each time the train stopped at a station lest an officer should be in wait for him.

But nothing of the kind happened, and in due time he reached Seattle. There things seemed more encouraging, for he was fortunate enough to find a man who had engaged a passage on a steamer for Skagway and Dyea, which sailed the same day. The man had given him time to rapidly sketch out a line of procedure which he hoped would be safe.

"But you are hurt. Can I do anything for you? Let me have a little look. We can talk afterward."

The injury was soon located, and after predicting that a few days would set the matter right, Capt. Scott said:

"What on earth brought you here? Have you been home lately? Did you see my boy?"

The mate had done considerable thinking during the past few minutes. After the first surprise was over he had rapidly determined upon his course, and he now shook his head, replying:

"I'm afraid I can't give you much good news from home, cap'n."

His eyes fell as he spoke, but the other was too eager to notice.

"What do you mean, Rider?"

The voice was hoarse now with suppressed eagerness. "My boy! Tell me! Is he—why don't you speak? My brother, too! D— it, man speak out! Has anything happened to them? They might both be dead by the way you act!"

"They are," murmured Rider, still with his eyes cast down.

Without a word the captain turned on his heel and disappeared. It was half an hour before he returned, and there was such a change in his rugged features that even the mate felt compassion for him. But he had no alternative. Anything to prevent Tom's father from learning the truth. He had told his story, and now he must be prepared with the details. Fortunately the absence of his latest victim had given him time to rapidly sketch out a line of procedure which he hoped would be safe.

GAELIC GREETINGS.

In them the Blessings of God Are Frequently and Heartily Invoked.

On a stormy day you arrive unexpectedly after a long journey. In English your friends would probably say: "Is it possible that you came from Galway to-day?" But in Gaelic: "And is it from Galway you came to-day, God bless you!" This phrase is also added after any reference to children or animals, to show that the speaker is well disposed towards them. No one would say: "That is a fine cow" without adding "God bless her!" A similar blessing is invoked on wounds and sores shown to anyone; indeed, in the highlands on such occasions people make an elementary sign of the cross over the wound, although in ordinary circumstances they would never be guilty of such a Catholic practice.

The very mention of injuries or accidents is accompanied by some short ejaculation to ward off similar evils from the speakers; in English: "God save the mark!" in Gaelic, practically the same. In the same way we have "The Lord between us and harm!" in Gaelic, "God between us and all evil and harm!" or "Far from us all harm!" In fear or alarm, "God save us and bless us!" "God forever with us!" "Cross of Christ about us!" "God with us and Mary and the Domhnach!" the last word in this case being used, I think, in its sense of shrine for sacred relics, not in the meaning of the Sunday. In anxiety, "My soul to God and Mary!" This is also used in the highlands. Best known of all is the cruel grief or pain, "A wirra! wirra! a Muire! Muire!" "O Mary, Mary!" and "A wirra is throa! a Muire is tragh!" "O Mary, how sad!" This confidence in the Blessed Virgin breathes through the whole language.—Donahoe's Magazine.

Medieval French Beggars.

The rank and file of the beggars were divided into distinct classes, each following some particular form of mendicity to which strict attention was demanded. One had to be a specialist and stick to his own line of business; the general practitioner was accorded no recognition. The subjects of the king of Argot now no chronicles; consequently our knowledge of the beggar dynasty is somewhat limited. Three kings, however, managed to make names for themselves in history: Iago, a Solon in Rags, who founded the monarchy and drew up a system of laws for its government; Anareon, who, wrapped in a mantle of a thousand pieces, collected alms while riding an ass through the streets of Paris, and a monarch who is known to us as the king of Tunis. The latter reigned for three years only, and was broken on the wheel at Bordeaux because his ideas of personal liberty differed from those of the French government, whose minions happened to be stronger than his own. At stated periods the French beggars held a general parliament at Sainte Anne d'Auray, in Brittany, where means were discussed for the advancement of mendicity in all its branches. What a gathering it must have been! What a fantastic, nightmare-like assemblage of rags and tatters!—Lippincott's.

Bank Director—I am surprised, sir, to learn that you drop into our bank every day and whisper tips to our cashier. Don't you know the information must be a great temptation to him to use the bank's funds to speculate with? Wealthy Broker—Yes.

"Just so."

"Then, in the name of common sense, what's your motive?"

"Well, the fact is, I don't know whether your cashier's honest or not; but if he isn't honest, and if he does use the bank's funds to speculate with, I want him to keep on the right side of the market. See?"—N. Y. Weekly.

"I suppose it was a little cheeky," said the young man to the old fellow on the rear platform of the car, "but what are you going to do in such a case?"

"Yes, what are you going to do?" queried the old fellow, in reply, though having no knowledge of what was meant.

"I got up the courage to ask her hand in marriage and she murmured yes."

"They generally murmur."

"Then I had to be in good form, I had to go and ask the old man's consent."

"Perfectly correct, young man—perfectly correct."

"I took a bracer and walked in on him," continued the young man, "and in due time I had stated my case. He waited a decent length of time and then said I could have."

"That was beautiful—beautiful."

"Yes, as far as it went. Yes that was all right, but I wasn't through with him yet. I had to ask him if he'd lend me a hundred dollars to get married on. Wasn't no other way, you know."

"No, no other way," repeated the old fellow, as he got a new brace for his back. "And he loaned it to you?"

"Nop. Threw me down with a dull thud."

"You don't say?"

"Did for a fact. Yes, the whole thing is off, and I have loved and lost. I don't see where I'm to blame, though."

"Not a bit of it. You loved and wanted to marry; but it takes money to get married on. He had it, but wouldn't lend it. No money—no marriage. THE ICE MACHINE'S PART.

At Last There Has Been a New Feature Introduced Into Uncle Tom's Cabin.

There is a new wrinkle in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" theatrical company. One of them, which is making the state of New Jersey for audiences, has hit upon the device of buying a refrigerating machine and using real blocks of ice in the scene in which Eliza, pursued by a pack of barking mongrels, crosses the river carrying in her arms a stuffed doll.

The icemaking machine has proved an enormous success. At the Ridgewood opera house, where the ice machine played a few evenings ago, a frantic crowd fought its way through the doors. At the first performances the ice machine was kept in the background. Several cakes were manufactured before the performance and placed on the green baize river. They were carried on the surface, so that when Eliza made her grand debut, the world would not turn undignified somersaults. The ice machine, however, had been so largely advertised that yokels wanted to see it. They sat in their places after the curtain descended upon the solemn death of Little Eva and howled for the ice machine to come out and show itself. The stage manager and a couple of deck hands had to carry it down to the footlights. Then they turned the handle and, amid uproarious applause, the machine produced a cake of real ice.

Since then a part has been written in the play for the ice machine. When the river scene opens a couple of southern speculators are discovered experimenting with the machine. They produced their ice, and when the curtain came up, they set it out in the river, and it sits upon the river surface at proper intervals to accommodate Eliza's footsteps. A colored man comes out and sprinkles sand over the ice in full view of the audience.—Chicago Chronicle.

MILITIA CALLED.

Judge Toney, of Louisville, Issued Orders Allowing Brown Inspectors at Polling Places.

The Decree in Some Instances Contemporaneously Ignored, and Judge Toney Called on Gov. Bradley to Enforce the Order, Which Was Done.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 8.—At 6 o'clock Tuesday evening Col. C. C. Mengel received orders from Gov. Bradley to send to the polls at once the Louisville Legion, which had been under arms at its armory all day in readiness for a call. Up to this time the election had been one of the quietest ever known here. The balloting proceeded all day without any disorder. A few arrests for alleged interference with voters were made, but there was less than the usual amount of friction between the workers for the respective candidates.

When the polls closed at 4 o'clock the inspectors representing the interests of the Brown ticket appeared and demanded admittance to watch the count. This was done under a mandatory injunction issued by Judge Toney, of the circuit court, shortly before noon, restraining the city authorities and officers of election from interfering with the Brown inspectors. About the middle of the afternoon the republicans secured a similar order for their inspectors on representations that they were threatened with interference.

In a number of places the inspectors were refused recognition and Gov. Bradley's order for troops to go to the polls was made upon a statement by Judge Toney reciting this state of affairs. Judge Toney's letter to Gov. Bradley was as follows:

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7.
Gov. W. O. Bradley, City, Sir—Two mandatory injunctions were to-day issued by me as one of the judges of the Jefferson circuit court, requiring election officers at the election precincts to allow the inspectors for the Brown and republican tickets entrance to the voting precincts to witness and inspect the count. It has been represented to me that these injunctions are being contemptuously ignored and violated. I have issued the decree or judgment of law. I am not a ministerial officer and can enforce it. I call your attention to the fact as chief executive of the state, that you may take such action to see that the laws are executed as you may deem proper under the circumstances.

Yours very respectfully,

STERLING B. TONEY.
Judge Jefferson Circuit Court, Law and Equity Division.

The men were ready, and within a few minutes began to form about the armory. Belts were loaded up with ball cartridges, and every man had his bayonet fixed.

Col. Mengel, who was in uniform for the first time since the regiment was placed in readiness for a call, assumed command. As soon as the order became known, Sheriff Bell hastened to the armory and protested against the calling out of the troops, on the ground that there had been no disorder and no trouble, and that there was no occasion for action by the state authorities; that Judge Toney had not made any representations to him (the sheriff) as peace officer of the county; that there had not been any interference with his order.

Col. Mengel replied that he was acting under instructions from Gov. Bradley.

Shortly after 7 o'clock orders to march were given. Companies B, C and D swung into Main street and started on the double quick for the lower quarters of the city in the west end. They visited polling places en route and inquired into the treatment of the representatives of all the parties. Everything was found quiet, however, and the blue coats were marched back to headquarters. The only excitement noticeable was that occasioned by their presence. Meanwhile the count was proceeding in all the voting places of the city.

RECEIPTS OF THE FIGHT.

Jeffries and Sharkey Receive Their Share of the Gate Money—The Pictures Will Not a Fortune.

NEW YORK. Nov. 8.—Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey received their share of the gate receipts of the big fight Tuesday. The total receipts of the fight were $60,448. The fighters received two-thirds of this amount, or $44,560. As the winner, Jeffries received 75 per cent, or $33,423, and Sharkey's share was the remaining 25 per cent, or $11,141. Jeffries' share of the receipts is the largest ever received for winning a battle. Each fighter has a third interest in the pictures, and it is estimated at least $500,000 will be derived from this source.

Adm. Dewey Returns to Washington

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Adm. Dewey and his fiancee, Mrs. Mildred Hazen, left for Washington Tuesday. In the party also were Mrs. Washington McLean and Mrs. Ludlow, mother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. Hazen.

THE SAMOAN GROUP.

The Partition of the Islands Closes a Long-Standing Controversy—We Get Tutuila and Other Small Islands.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Whatever plan Great Britain and Germany might agree upon, it was stipulated should be first submitted to the ratification of the United States. This was necessary as the change proposed could be made only by formal treaty, which would require the approval of the senate.

It is believed that the arrangement proposed now will be satisfactory to the state department. The United States is not concerned with the amount or character of the compensation that passes between the other nations. Besides retaining the coaling station of Pago Pago, acquiring the island of Tutuila where the harbor is located, and the three or four smaller islets in the vicinity, the United States will continue to enjoy by stipulation the privilege of trading with Apia under conditions equally as favorable as those now existing. The islets referred to are not of any particular importance from a commercial point of view, but it is deemed essential to control them politically in order to prevent smuggling.

The partition of the Samoan group of islands marks the close of a long-standing source of international controversy, and also brings about new territorial arrangements in the South Pacific.

In the early stage of the negotiations it was agreed that the United States should have the island of Tutuila, with its valuable harbor of Pago Pago, and the lesser islands of its coast, including the large islet of Maua. The negotiations then shifted to London to determine whether Germany or Great Britain should retain the two remaining islands of Upolu and Savasi. The nature of these later negotiations have been constantly communicated to Washington, although they have not reached the state department and it has been known for some days that in case Great Britain retired from Samoa, Germany would give as part compensation the large Solomons islands of Yatabel and Choiseul. These are near the British possessions in Australasia, being east of New Guinea. They are twice the size of the Samoan group but the country is mountainous and the people warlike, many being cannibals. The area of all the German Solomon islands is 9,000 square miles, against 1,700 square miles for the entire Samoan group.

At the British and German embassies here the announcement of the close of the negotiations was received with much satisfaction.

A high diplomatic official said that the agreement was due mainly to the fact that German public sentiment was averse to retiring from Samoa, and yielding to this sentiment Great Britain had solved the matter by taking an equivalent in territory elsewhere.

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—The Deutsche Zeitung, which harshly criticizes the agreement, says: "Everything beyond Tonga is far in excess of a fair price. Germany ought to have secured additional African rights."

The Neuste Nachrichten says: "The political importance lies in the fact that certain questions threatening the good understanding of Germany with England and America are disposed of."

The Post says: "The cry that Samoa has become German will find a joyful echo in German hearts."

The Boerner Zeitung says: "The American retention of Tutuila appears to make the agreement less valuable, because it is precisely the presence of Americans which has given rise to continual friction."

The Dewey Wedding

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The marriage ceremony, which will unite Adm. Dewey and Mrs. Hazen, will be performed at Mrs. McLean's residence.

Only a family party, with a few intimate friends and several high officials, will witness the event. No authoritative information is obtainable as to the exact date for the wedding. Cardinal Gibbons will be away from Washington for a week and it is believed that Archbishop Keane, a friend of the bride, will celebrate the marriage rites. The archbishop is out of the city.

Civil Marriage of Luz Diaz

Foul-Smelling Catarrh.

Catarrh is one of the most obstinate diseases, and hence the most difficult to get rid of.

There is but one way to cure it. The disease is in the blood, and all the sprays, washes and inhaling mixtures in the world can have no permanent effect whatever upon it. Swift's Specific cures Catarrh permanently, for it is the only remedy which can reach the disease and force it from the blood.

Mr. B. P. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., had Catarrh for years. He writes: "I could see no improvement whatever, though I was constantly treated with sprays and washes, and different mixtures, and remedies. In fact, I could feel that each winter I was worse than the year previous."

"Finally I was brought to Dr. Swift, who advised me to take his Specific, which at once
